

Abbreviated bibliography of Ian Steedman's work

Books

From Exploitation to Altruism. Polity Press, Cambridge, 1989.

(Editor and Contributor) Socialism and Marginalism in Economics, 1870-1930, Routledge, 1995.

Consumption takes Time. Implications for Economic Theory, Routledge, London, 2001.

Papers

Economic Theory and Intrinsically Non-Autonomous Preferences and Beliefs.
Quaderni Fondazione Feltrinelli. (Proceedings of the Seminar in Economic Methodology), No. 7/8, 1980.

(with U. Krause) Goethe's Faust, Arrow's possibility theorem and the individual decision taker. In J. Elster (ed.), The Multiple Self, C.U.P., 1986.

Rationality, economic man and altruism in Philip H. Wicksteed's Common Sense of Political Economy. (In) Truth, Liberty, Religion: Essays celebrating two hundred years of Manchester College, Oxford, (ed. B.A. Smith), 1986.

Trade interest versus class interest. Economia Politica vol. 3, 1986.

The Economic Journal and Socialism, 1890 to 1920, (in) J.D. Hey and D. Winch (eds.), A Century of Economics, Oxford, Basil Blackwell, 1990.

P.H. Wicksteed on Das Kapital, Volume I, (in) D. Moggridge (ed.), Perspectives on the History of Economic Thought, Volume III, Classics, Marxians and Neoclassicals, Edward Elgar, Aldershot 1990.

'Worker versus worker', (in) S. Kozyr-Kowalski and A. Przystalski (eds.), On Social Differentiation. A Contribution to the Critique of Marxist Ideology, Adam Mickiewicz University Press, Poznan, 1992.

John Carruthers: A Victorian market socialist, European Journal for the History of Economic Thought, 1994.

P.H. Wicksteed: Economist and Prophet, (in) H.G. Brennan and A.M.C. Waterman (eds.), Economics and Religion; Are they distinct?, Kluwer Academic Publishing, 1994.

Welfare Economics and Robinson Crusoe the Producer, Metroeconomica, 2000, 51(2), 151-167.

On some concepts of rationality in economics, in P. E. Earl & S. F. Frowen (eds)
Economics as an Art of Thought: Essays in memory of G.L.S. Shackle, 2000, London, Routledge, 101-123.

British economists and philosophers on Marx's value theory, 1920-1925. Journal of the History of Economic Thought, 2004.

Philip Henry Wicksteed, entry in the new Oxford Dictionary of National Biography, 2004.

On not traducing economics. (In) J. Atherton and H. Skinner (eds.), Through the Eye of a Needle, Epworth Press, 2007